WHERE THE CHILDREN COME IN

There seems to be as much style in children's clothes now as there is in grown-ups. And the children know it, too. The other day a little girl came home from school and astonished her mother by saying: "I don't want to wear this dress any more. I want a Russian blouse like all the other girls have."

Now the mother knew that there were such things as "Russian blouse drésses," but that children were wearing them had escaped her notice. Being a wise woman she hastily sought counsel with the advertisements of THE BULLETIN, and there she discovered just what "all the girls were wearing" and where geously for her little daughter.

Many a mother has found that in order to know what to get for her children she must keep herself informed of changes of style through reading the advertisements of the shops in a rehable paper. They tell her not only what the other children have, but where each article may be bought.
